The Legal Framework for Commercial and Economic Activities

The legal framework for commercial and economic activities in Slovakia is based on the Civil Code of the Slovak Republic, the Commercial Code of the Slovak Republic, and other laws and regulations.

The Civil Code is the fundamental law governing civil and commercial relations in Slovakia. It sets out the general principles of contract law, property law, and tort law.

The Commercial Code is the primary law governing commercial activities in Slovakia. It sets out the rules governing the formation, operation, and dissolution of companies, as well as the laws governing bankruptcy and insolvency.

In addition to the Civil Code and the Commercial Code, there are a number of other laws and regulations that govern commercial and economic activities in Slovakia. These laws include the Law on Accounting, the Law on Taxes, the Law on Labor Relations, and the Law on Dispute Resolution.

Types of Business Entities

There are a number of different types of business entities that are available to foreign investors in Slovakia. These entities include:

- Limited liability companies (LLCs)
- Joint-stock companies (JSCs)
- Branches of foreign companies
- Representative offices

The most common type of business entity used by foreign investors in Slovakia is the LLC. LLCs are relatively easy to set up and operate, and they offer a high degree of liability protection to their owners.

JSCs are another popular type of business entity for foreign investors. JSC
