

No, Not My Son: A Mother's Nightmare of Murder and Betrayal

No! Not My Son!: An African Mother's Journey Through Life with Autism

★★★★☆ 4.8 out of 5

Language	: English
File size	: 2719 KB
Text-to-Speech	: Enabled
Screen Reader	: Supported
Enhanced typesetting	: Enabled
Word Wise	: Enabled
Print length	: 56 pages
Lending	: Enabled

By Jessica McBride

In the small town of Edmond, Oklahoma, Jessica McBride was living every mother's dream. Her son, Jason, was a star athlete, a loving brother, and a devoted friend. But on a fateful night in 2012, Jessica's world came crashing down when she received the news that Jason had been murdered.

Jason's death was a senseless act of violence, committed by his friend, Michael Bargo. Bargo had been drinking and driving, and when he lost control of his car, Jason was thrown from the vehicle and killed.

Jessica was devastated by her son's death, but she was determined to find justice for him. She worked tirelessly with the police and prosecutors to build a case against Bargo, and she was there every step of the way as he was tried and convicted of murder.

No, Not My Son is Jessica's powerful and moving account of her journey through grief and the legal process. It is a story of love, loss, and the fight for justice. Jessica's story is a reminder that even in the darkest of times, there is always hope.

Reviews

"No, Not My Son is a heartbreaking and inspiring story of a mother's love and loss. Jessica McBride's courage and determination in the face of unimaginable tragedy is a testament to the power of the human spirit." - Ann Rule, New York Times bestselling author of The Stranger Beside Me

"A powerful and moving account of a mother's journey through grief and the legal process. Jessica McBride's story is a reminder that even in the darkest of times, there is always hope." - John Grisham, New York Times bestselling author of The Firm

"No, Not My Son is a must-read for anyone who has ever lost a loved one to violence. Jessica McBride's story is a powerful reminder that we are not alone in our grief, and that there is hope for healing." - Elizabeth Smart, New York Times bestselling author of My Story

About the Author

Jessica McBride is a mother, writer, and advocate for victims of violence. She is the founder of the Jason McBride Foundation, which provides support to families who have lost a loved one to murder.

Jessica's writing has been featured in The New York Times, The Washington Post, and The Huffington Post. She has also appeared on numerous television and radio shows, including The Oprah Winfrey Show, The Today Show, and Good Morning America.

Jessica McBride is an inspiration to all who have been touched by violence. Her story is a powerful reminder that even in the darkest of times, there is always hope.

To learn more about Jessica McBride and her work, please visit her website at www.jessicamcbride.com.

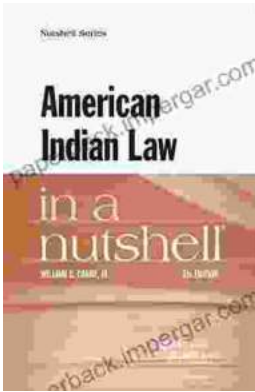

No! Not My Son!: An African Mother's Journey Through Life with Autism

★★★★☆ 4.8 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 2719 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 56 pages
Lending : Enabled

Unlock the Complexities of American Indian Law with "American Indian Law in a Nutshell"

Welcome to the fascinating world of American Indian law, a complex and dynamic field that governs the relationship between Indigenous peoples, their...

Master Street Photography: The Ultimate Beginner's Guide

Are you ready to embark on an exciting journey into the world of street photography? Whether you're a complete novice or an aspiring enthusiast,...