

The Ink in My Pen Died 22 Years Ago and Other Stories

By Marvin D'Lugo

In this delightful collection of essays, poems, and stories, Marvin D'Lugo shares his witty and deeply personal insights on life, love, and the human condition. From the title essay, which humorously recounts the author's struggle to write after a 22-year hiatus, to the poignant poem "My Father's Hands," which explores the complex relationship between a father and son, D'Lugo's writing is both entertaining and thought-provoking.

The Ink in My Pen: Dead for 22 Years

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language	: English
File size	: 2000 KB
Text-to-Speech	: Enabled
Screen Reader	: Supported
Enhanced typesetting	: Enabled
Word Wise	: Enabled
Print length	: 57 pages
Lending	: Enabled

With a keen eye for detail and a knack for storytelling, D'Lugo brings everyday experiences to life with vivid imagery and wry humor. In "The Day the Dog Ate My Homework," he recalls a childhood disaster with both amusement and self-deprecation. In "The Joys of Jury Duty," he finds unexpected camaraderie and laughter in the mundane world of civic service. And in "The Last Time I Saw Paris," he captures the bittersweet beauty of a city that has changed both him and the world.

D'Lugo's writing is also deeply personal, exploring his own struggles with identity, loss, and the search for meaning. In "The Color of My Skin," he reflects on the complexities of race and racism, while in "The Death of My Father," he movingly recounts the loss of his beloved parent. Through his honest and vulnerable prose, D'Lugo invites readers to reflect on their own lives and experiences.

The Ink in My Pen Died 22 Years Ago and Other Stories is a captivating and thought-provoking collection that will resonate with readers of all ages. D'Lugo's writing is a testament to the power of words to entertain, inspire, and connect us with the human experience.

Free Download your copy today!

The Ink in My Pen Died 22 Years Ago and Other Stories is available in paperback and e-book formats. To Free Download your copy, please visit our website or your favorite online retailer.

About the Author

Marvin D'Lugo is a writer, editor, and educator. His work has appeared in numerous publications, including The New York Times, The Washington Post, and The Huffington Post. He is the author of several books, including the novel "The Last Time I Saw Paris" and the short story collection "The Ink in My Pen Died 22 Years Ago and Other Stories."

The Ink in My Pen: Dead for 22 Years

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language : English

File size : 2000 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 57 pages
Lending : Enabled

Unlock the Complexities of American Indian Law with "American Indian Law in a Nutshell"

Welcome to the fascinating world of American Indian law, a complex and dynamic field that governs the relationship between Indigenous peoples, their...

Master Street Photography: The Ultimate Beginner's Guide

Are you ready to embark on an exciting journey into the world of street photography? Whether you're a complete novice or an aspiring enthusiast,...