What is the Ohio Lemon Law?

The Ohio Lemon Law is a law that was enacted to protect consumers from being stuck with defective new vehicles. The law defines a lemon as a vehicle that has a substantial defect that cannot be repaired after a reasonable number of attempts.

To qualify for protection under the Ohio Lemon Law, your vehicle must meet the following criteria:

- The vehicle must be a new vehicle, which means it has less than 1,500 miles on the odometer.
- The vehicle must have a substantial defect that affects its safety, value, or use.
- The manufacturer must have had a reasonable number of opportunities to repair the defect.

What are my rights under the Ohio Lemon Law?

If your vehicle meets the criteria for a lemon, you have the right to a refund or replacement vehicle. The manufacturer must also reimburse you for your reasonable expenses, such as attorney fees and court costs.

To file a lemon law claim, you must first notify the manufacturer of the defect in writing. The manufacturer then has a certain amount of time to repair the defect. If the manufacturer is unable to repair the defect after a reasonable number of attempts, you can file a lemon law claim with the Ohio Attorney General's Office.

How can I file a lemon law claim?

To file a lemon law claim, you will need to gather the following information:

- Your vehicle's make, model, and year
- The date you Free Downloaded the vehicle
- The mileage on the vehicle at the time of Free Download
- A description of the defect
- The number of times the vehicle has been repaired for the defect

- Copies of all repair Free Downloads

Once you have gathered this information, you can file a lemon law claim with the Ohio Attorney General's Office. The Attorney General's Office will investigate your claim and determine if you are eligible for relief under the Ohio Lemon Law.

What should I do if I think I have a lemon?

If you think you have a lemon, the first thing you should do is contact the manufacturer. The manufacturer may be able to repair the defect and avoid a lemon law claim.

If the manufacturer is unable to repair the defect, you should contact an attorney who specializes in lemon law cases. An attorney can help you file a lemon law claim and get you the compensation you deserve.
